RETURNS FROM THE STATE.

NEW YORK CITY.

We do not remember of any election ever held to this city that was attended with so little excitement so devoid of interest to the great body politic as the election yesterday on the proposed amendment of the Constitution your safing the benefit of the elective franchise to our absent electors in the Army and Navy. The polls remained open during the usual m snarise to sunset, and the same arrangements were made as is the custom on general elections the city, where wat ally 400 or 600 votes are polled, less than 250 were east.
